success of the association greatly depends upon this.

Yours truly,

MRS. N. E. GREEN.

Secretary.

By order of the Board of Directors.

Guthrie, Ky., July 26, 1907.

The above official call sets forth the time for the ensuing annual election of the Tobacco association. It will be held in every voting precinct in 19 counties of the "Black Patch."

It is not probable that any radical changes will be made in the personnel of the committee in Christian county. No dissatisfaction exists anywhere, so far as known, and it is quite likely that most of the old committeemen, who have done such efficient service, will be re-elected.

Chairman W. W. Radford will probably be re-elected county chairman without opposition, though it is not improbable that he may be promoted to the position of member of the Advisory Board.

It is predicted that the general committee, made up of county chairmen, will adopt a resolution requiring the members of the Advisory Board to be taken from the committee, if any changes are made.

In this event Mr. Radford would be eligible, and would be a formidable candidate.

TWO ALARMS TURNED IN

But Both Proved To Be Of But Little Consequence.

ONE UNUSUAL CAUSE.

Arthur Dillard Had Narrow Escape From Explosion of Gasoline.

Early Tuesday morning a fire alarm was turned in from M. H. McGrew's machine shop at Eighth and Clay. Arthur Dillard, the driver of the gasoline wagon, was delivering two open cans of gasoline, holding five gallons each, to the shop for use in the engine. As he entered the shop a blacksmith took a piece of hot iron and began work on it. A spark flew into one of the cans of gasoline, causing a flash and explosion. Dillard threw the cans backward and jumped out of danger.

The burning gasoline filled the interior of the shop with flames, but the fire department was quickly on the scene and put it out. The water caused more damage than the fire.

About the same time another alarm was turned in from the residence of Mrs. E. Anderson, on East Ninth street. It was caused from burning soot in a chimney and was put out before the hose cart arrived, by firemen Wm. Turner and Will Hester, who were first to reach the fire.

The damages were slight in both cases.

BESSIE'S STRATAGEM

By ROLLIN LYNDY HART.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The Bessie Lumpus was about to weigh Nebuchadnezzar the King. It was therefore highly fortunate that the Congregational minister of Capernaum Center in a village people almost wholly by Lumpuses, had chosen to devote his pastoral attention to the household, known by reason of the complete dominance of its ruling spirit, as "the Bessies." For the Rev. Nebuchadnezzar was contemplating a sermon in reply to Mr. Edwin Markham's "Man with the Hoe," and here was material drawn from real life. Take the Old Gentleman Lumpus, for instance—was ever face more genial and smiling than his? Full lips, round and very red cheeks! The three stood grouped about Nebuchadnezzar the King who was unquestionably the prettiest cherry-red "Hollister" calf in seven counties.

Presented it to Uncle Silas.

rend Mr. Digby, but I mistrust Pearl will be testily discomfited to be kept by a minister of the gospel before she's had time to shift her duds."

"Yep," echoed Dwight; "we look like the last run of rats!" What a golden opportunity for the exercise of pastoral tact! The muscular young parson slipped off his shiny ministerial coat, laid it across the lichen-covered rail fence, and joined in the weighing.

"Mr. Digby," said Bessie, "how much do you guess?" But the parson, whose acquaintance with agricultural affairs was even more remote than his acquaintance with the dreadful Andover heresites, left the guessing to more capable minds.

"Waal," drawled the old gentleman, "I calculate he'll spite a hundred and fifty pounds."

Miss Bessie registered a bold "150" on the weather-beaten barn door.

"Dwight," she said, "it's your turn now."

"Pshaw!" ejaculated Dwight, "I reckon this critter ain't more'n a hundred and forty."

Again the chalk and the tall, staring numerals.

"Now," said Bessie Lumpus, "I mistrust I'm smart enough to hit it with in a pound. I'll just slick my guess between the two."

The men drew the girl-ropes tight. "Jerusalem crickets!" cried Dwight, as the little King's hoofs touched the floor. "Bessie come out to help her!"

"Miss Lumpus," said the clergyman, "I congratulate you—most heartily!" Bessie plucked a bachelor's button and laughingly set it in the preacher's buttonhole. "There," she cried; "there's your reward of courage for not daring to guess!"

"Miss Lumpus," Nebuchadnezzar remarked, "I suppose we shall see you to-night at the Uncle Silases' lawn-party?"

There was an awkward pause.

"No, Mr. Digby," she said; "we don't calculate to be there."

By a sudden flash of inward enlightenment the Rev. Nebuchadnezzar comprehended. The lumpus had been left out! The minister saw why the Uncle Silases possessed a daughter-lean and saw why they had long cast jealous eyes upon the bachelor preacher's attentions to Miss Bessie; and now the crisis had arrived. Of course they had invited the parson. But what pleasure to Nebuchadnezzar to go where Bessie was excluded? His face flushed with indignation. Bessie saw his anger and blushed. The minister saw the blush and turned ummistakably pale. The two had found each other out! Their hearts beat quick with mingled fright and joy.

There was nothing for it but flight. To-morrow—better yet, to-morrow evening—Bessie and Nebuchadnezzar would be walking, and beneath God's gleaming stars—well—anything but a continuation of this present embarrassment!

So the pastoral call was brought to a very abrupt conclusion. The Rev. Nebuchadnezzar digressed toward the old gentleman, and said:

"Brother Lumpus, I trust you'll not forget the meeting of the standing committee next Friday evening."

With these plainly irrelevant words he took his leave.

The clergyman turned his steps homeward. To go or not to go? Yes, he would go. He would trust Bessie's generosity to grant him forgiveness. Half a mile of sunlit meadowland brought the minister to his desolate study, where he passed the remainder of that eventful afternoon trying to arrange an outline for his sermon on "The Man with the Hoe."

Daylight began to fail. The Rev. Mr. Digby laid aside his work, shaved his comely face, dusted his clerical coat and made ready for the evening's dismal pleasures. He set forth alone and on foot.

A sudden turn in the road brought him in full view of the Uncle Silas place. Upon the new-mown lawn a score of guests were already assembled.

Digby assumed an air of genial kindness and joined the social elect, with whom he cordially shook hands. Quite promptly Mrs. Silas took the clergyman under her wing.

"Rev'rend Mr. Digby," she said, "don't you think you've lived single 'bout long enough for a minister of the gospel?—Cynthia, dear! Come and sit with our pastor!"

"Ah!" said Cynthia, "Bachelor's button! But I think it's beginning to fade, don't you?"

Her mother beamed approval. But just then, to the profound relief of the preacher, Uncle Silas interrupted with—

"Ma," tell the folks to set down, won't you?"

"Come, friends," said Mrs. Silas, "set down to the table an' have a bite to eat."

Conversation lagged. Even the horses, tied along the front fence, seemed restive and uncomfortable.

But there is a soul-moving potency in silent ham; a convivial influence in cold tongue, baked beans, and dough-nuts; an element of good feeling in "meat-pie" and strong tea.

Older had also its cheering effect. Talk began to flow and all went merrily enough till the meal was nearly ended. Then Mrs. Silas described a curious indication in the remotest region of the moonlit hamlet.

"Rev'rend Mr. Digby," said she, "what's that black streak over there by Ichabod's mow?"

"Heavens to Betsy!" shouted Hank Lumpus. "Ef it's people, it's the bull 'arnal taown!"

It soon became quite unmistakable that the black line was really a procession of villagers, and that they were actually headed for the Uncle Silas homestead.

Uncle Silas, turning to his guests, said:

"Maybe you folks'd better put for shelter. I suspicion that's trouble a-brewin'."

"Mr. Digby," gasped Miss Cynthia, "I'm afraid I'm going—going—to—faint!"

Oh, if it had but been the absent Bessie! Nevertheless, Digby assisted Miss Cynthia to the porch, wheeled the two peered out from amongst the fragrant blossoms of the honeysuckle.

The foe was now very near. Finally the column spread out in a sort of loose semicircle, and when the newcomers had almost reached the table a slender figure stepped forth from the motley mass, and behold—in the silver sheen of the moonlight—Miss Bessie Lumpus!

"Good-evening, Uncle Silas!" said Bessie, dropping a curtsy. "I see you have company. I hope we're not intruding. We thought we'd give you a real, genuine surprise party. All I've got to say is, we got up a paper for you this afternoon, and this little purse is a slight token of the regard of the citizens of the town of Capernaum Center for you and your noble wife. We wish 'twas more, but our feelings are just as kind as if 'twas $1,000."

Uncle Silas stood silent. He glared at the Bessie Lumpuses.

But such suspense was not for long. A black clad figure, tall and commanding, strode down from the porch and approached Miss Bessie. All eyes were fixed upon him. The minister stretched out his hand to Bessie and said:

"Blessed Bumpus, with all my heart I congratulate you!"

Then the parson turned about, and taking the "donation" purse from her hand, he presented it to Uncle Silas.

Uncle Silas quickly recovered his composure, and framed an address in which affability, gratitude, and hospitality found exuberant expression.

"Thank you most to death!" said Uncle Silas. "No intrusion at all. Just a few relations dropped in; that's all. Thank you most to death, an' that would stave a cat!"

Democracy reigns once more in Capernaum Center, and what perhaps not less important, the parsonage is no longer tenanted.

The Gusher and the Novelist. Recently at a dinner in Washington a young novelist of Boston was seated next to an effusive girl from Indiana. At the first opportunity the fair Indiana turned to her neighbor and gushingly exclaimed:

"Oh, I am so glad to meet you! To think I should meet an author! It seems so wonderful that you should have written that lovely story!"

Whereupon, observing a strained expression on the face of her friend the author, the girl from Indiana perceived her mistake and hastened to add:

"Of course, you understand!" (With an uncertain smile). "It always seems so perfectly wonderful to me that anybody can write anything to matter how poor it is."

FOR SUMMER WEAR

SIMPLE COSTUMES FOR CHILD-
 DREN EASILY MADE.

All Over Elaboration and Showiness is Considered Out of Place on Garments for the Little Ones.

The making of children's frocks, and especially those designed for summer materials, present few difficulties to the home dressmaker, as although most of the costumes seem folio-rather closely the general lines of those designed for grown-ups, the trimmings are much more simple and the fitting presents few difficulties.

It is not considered good taste now-days to have anything ostentatious or elaborate about children's frocks, and although some of the finer models
 show exquisite handwork and fine laces in their decoration, there is never any effect of showiness. Youthful simplicity is aimed at by all the best designers, nevertheless, very origi-nial and smart effects are gained.

The long shoulder line is noticeable in all of the frocks for young girls.

Costume for Small Boy.

and the little blouse which has a sleeve or sleeve cap cut in one with the body of the blouse and worn over a slip with underclothes is very popular. A great many of the frocks, both for small girls and their older sisters, are made in one piece, the separate blouse and skirt being joined by inset lace stitched bands, or some such a device.

For party frocks the Empire tendency is noticed, and a great many of the fine lingerie materials, embroidered and lace trimmed, have wide sashes of satin or silk drawn around the short waist line and held in place
 by little straps of lace edged with narrow lace fills. These sashes are tied in square bows and extend high in the back. For other fine summer dresses, embroidered Swiss or batiste
 with the plain lingerie materials, and there are also some of the new fabrics charming materials which show an embroidered dot or sprig of delicate color on a white ground. Less expensive are the sheer cottons showing dainty printed designs in flower patterns. China and India silks are also appropriate for children's wear, but a great many much prefer the crisp white materials or delicately colored batiste, muslin and other wash fabrics as being smarter than any of the silks.

The little boy's suit sketched is a modification of the Russian blouse,
 the model being in white linen, with the blue linen strap about the collar,
 and an embroidered emblem in blue in the front.

Lingerie.

Nainsook, pique, batiste, mull and fine cambric are the materials in vogue for the construction of under-garments. The two requisites for materials are that they must not add to the weight of the garment or bulk to the figure. With the marked tendency in outer garments towards the more fitted forms, particularly about the hips, it becomes essential that undergarments should preserve the natural outlines of the figure. There is no fullness over the hips of well cut drawers and petticoats, and trimming
 on corset covers and chemises is flat.
 French lingerie now is sold at moderate prices and is gaining in favor, although not so well known as the American variety. It generally is well cut. A small amount of hand embroidery is used and where ribbon is employed for drawing up a garment it is run through buttonholes and in order to make the garment durable.

Embroidered Petticoats.

Smartly trimmed women favor the French embroidered petticoats for wear with walking costumes. A firm fabric is used for street wear, the flounce embroidered in a conventional design with a simple pattern above.
 Petticoats worn under lingerie frocks are wonderful creations, decorated with rows and rows of fine laces and insertions and an abundance of hand embroidery.

New Colorings.

So far the new leather shade has been confined to the high-class custom tailored-made suits. In addition to this shade a new brown with a tint of pink almost in its shading is also being used by the more exclusive tailors. Other new shades brought out are buff and apricot, but these so far do not seem to have taken very well.

Do You Feel Chilly, Then
 Feverish and Ache all Over?

Feel Warm, Blue and Tired? Have You
 a Fresh Cold, With Frequent Hacking Cough? Sensation of Soreness
 in the Chest or Back?

Don't let your case run into bronchitis,
 or some other obstinate and dangerous malady. The very best medicine to take in such a case is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Made without alcohol or dangerous drugs, it contains that rare combination of native medicinal roots
 that will attack a cold from its seat, as it were, restore the circulation, assist the appetite and digestion, and consequently restore tone to the entire system. That is the reason people look happy even more after taking it—they feel like living, because their liver is active, the blood in their arteries is full of that life-giving quality—rich, red blood. The blood in turn feeds the nerves.

Nervousness and neuritis are only the indication that the nerves are not fed on invigorating blood. This "Medical Discovery" of Dr. Pierce is nature's own restorer. It tones up the organism and invigorates its functions, furnishing to the body one of its necessary constituent principles of which it is in need.

This preparation is of pleasant taste,
 across perfectly with robustness and sensitive stomachs, and it is equally effective in restoring tone and vigor to the entire system. It cures troubles of the stomach and at the same time the blood-vessels are given such a tonic up as to throw off a cold. One very good reason why it restores the tones of run-down

 pale and emaciated people is because it first throws out the poisons through the liver and kidneys. It then begins its reconstructive work in building up flesh
 and making good, rich, red blood.
 "I have been a sufferer from indigestion
 for some time, and I could not get any S. W. Mulligan, of Greenville, N. C., and have used medicine from several of our physicians, which gave me only a little relative relief. Then I could not sleep with severe pains in the side of my stomach which I could not work nor sleep, and my weight went down from one hundred and twenty-five pounds to one hundred and twenty pounds in about two months' time. I then used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after taking it for a few days I began to feel better, and after a few more days
 my severe suffering continued until I had had four or five boxes of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I am truly thankful for the relief which I have received from your medicine, and can cordially recommend it to others."

It Stands Alone not only in respect to its ingredients, but also as the only medicine for stomach, liver and blood disorders, which absolutely contains PURELY VEGETABLE
 AND PERFECTLY HARMLESS INGREDI-ENTS.

It Stands Alone as the best alternative to the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery" in cases of indigestion, and the makers of which take their patients fully into consideration, and tell them exactly what they are taking. This Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made of such ingredients and after a working formula
 that has thousands of cures to its credit,
 placing its merits above criticism.

It Stands Alone even more for many cases and its ingredients are Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black berry root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root,
 and chemically pure glycerine.

Never's ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills
 first set up by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and which have been used for over 40 years, and although much imitated, have never been equaled. Made of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American plants and roots, therefore pur-ly vegetable and perfectly harmless. One Little Liver Pills for a stomachic, stomach and bowels, three tiny granules for a cathartic.

The Weather.

For Kentucky—Generally fair, with moderate temperature, Thursday.

President Roosevelt has another daughter, Miss Ethel, who will "set out" this season.

Judge James Breathitt, will open his campaign for attorney general at Marion Sept. 16.

Capt. W. J. Stone, has withdrawn from the contest for Senator in the Eddyville district and pledges his support to Senator Conn Linn, the Democratic nominee. It is gratifying to Capt. Stone's friends to know that he is still a good party man and will support the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Stanley is in a position to do the tobacco raisers great good in their efforts to escape the oppression of the tobacco trust, but it can't be done by speeches which arouse the "night riders" to action. His speech at Hopkinsville was along the right lines, and the Inquirer is willing at all times to give him credit for all the good he undertakes.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Caleb Powers says he now knows who killed Gov. Goebel. Is it possible that he will turn State's evidence, because Taylor refuses to come to Kentucky to testify for him? A confession from Powers is expected to be the sensation of his fourth trial. The murder was committed in his office and the public has always believed that he knows who carried out the plot.

There seems to be a more or less general revival of the old Fashioned spank. This time it is a Philadelphia woman who has driven her 16 year old daughter into matrimony by spanking her. Gertrude was so incensed that she sent her lover word that she was ready to marry him and they eloped the next day. Only a few days before a Michigan woman undertook to spank Johnny and exploded a dynamite cap in his hip pocket, that came very near killing both mother and son.

The lists for the Democratic primary election in Louisville, Sept. 24, were closed Tuesday and nearly all of the present appointees of Gov. Beckham declined to enter. For many of the offices there is but one candidate. Owen Tyler, for mayor; Marion W. Rippy, for County Judge; Dan H. Russell, for Sheriff; Walter Ratcliffe, for County Clerk; Wm. J. O'Connor, for County Attorney and practically all of the candidates for city offices are without opposition. There are some contests in legislative districts but the primary will be a tame affair. The party ticket will be made up of Granger followers.

The September number of the National is filled with an abundance of high-class fiction and verse, and it is a number that will appeal to magazine readers at this time of the season. Among the special articles is one by Sidney J. Dillon on "The DeMoines Plain," dealing with the new method of city government in Iowa's capital, and "Leveling Jur Population," by Carlyle Ellis. The departments, "Affairs at Washington" and "Happy Habit," abound with the class of material which so many readers of the National particularly delight in. Edward Carleton Knight contributes an illustrated article on "Taft on a Vacation," showing how this wonderful gentleman works during the hours which most men would devote to recreation and enjoyment. Another handsome three-color cover design, and four splendid frontispieces help to adorn and ornament this number of the National Magazine.

STILL LIVING

Remarkable Case of Jos. H. Schuler Reported at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3.—Surgeons of this city are deeply interested in the remarkable case of Joseph H. Schuler, who two days ago, attempted suicide by putting two bullets into his brain, and who continues to improve. Schuler today recognized members of his family, and was able to take liquid nourishment. It is now believed that he has a chance to recover. The attempt at suicide was made by putting a revolver in his mouth and firing twice. Both balls lodged in the cranium after almost tearing away the roof of the mouth.

Drs. W. C. Dugan and J. P. Ferguson performed the operation, relieving the pressure of blood on the brain, but not finding the bullets. Since then Schuler has lain in a semi-conscious state. His right side is paralyzed. The cause of the deed is unknown. He is a blacksmith and is 23 years of age.

SHOWMEN

Who Always Consider Their Patrons First and the Finances Later.

The Old-Fashioned Circus Seats Have Been Relegated By Cole Brothers.

There is something substantial about the very mention of the great Cole Brothers' circus and menagerie that causes one to realize a feeling of surety. It is nearly ten years since this giant of the amusement world toured this section of the country and during its absence it has increased in both magnitude and merit that few will recognize in it the show that always pleased them so extremely in years gone by. Every department has been enlarged and while magnitude has been considered, merit has not by any means been neglected. They are showmen who always consider their patrons first and the finances later. They are cognizant of the fact that the best advertising medium ever created is a satisfied audience, and of the hundreds of thousands who have seen this show this year, not one complaint has been made by one of them. Patrons of this show can feel assured that they are as safe in its spacious tents as that their own houses and that their time is not being wasted watching a performance with which they are only too familiar. Everything is up to the minute. The comfortable seating arrangements are such as meet with the approval of all. The old-fashioned circus seats have been relegated and every seat is provided with comfortable back and foot rests. The Cole Brothers' show carries its own corps of detectives, who will work in conjunction with the local authorities and visitors can feel that they will not be compelled to suffer from the annoyance of dishonest methods so conspicuous with other tented aggregations. Cole Brothers' show will be in Hopkinsville next Saturday, Sept. 7.

BITTEN BY SNAKE

Thought To Be a Copperhead or a Rattler.

Miss Hazel Schopperd, aged 16, daughter of J. W. Schopperd, of the Crofton neighborhood, was bitten on the left hand by a snake a few days ago. The young lady was assisting her brother in feeding the cows and when she picked up a bundle of hay the reptile struck his fangs in her hand. It was in the night and she could not see the snake, but it is thought that it was either a copperhead or a rattler, as there are many of both species in that section. The hand and arm have been much swollen, but Miss Schopperd was reported somewhat better yesterday, with good chances of recovery.

Mr. J. E. Valk, a member of the jewelry firm of N. H. White & Co. of New York, was in the city Saturday and his striking resemblance to Mayor Meacham caused several amusing incidents. There was a big crowd in town and among the visitors were some whose feelings had been hurt by the Mayor's war on night riders and at one time these were seen "taking in" Mr. Valk with glances not altogether of admiration. One of the Mayor's friends who does not come to town often stopped Mr. Valk on the street and congratulated him on making such a fine Mayor. It so happened that the "doubles" did not come in contact with each other.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE COMET?

Early Risers Will Be Well Repaid by a Look Into
The East.

BEST BEFORE DAWN.

Discovered By Professor
Daniels, Nearly Three Months Ago.

Many persons who have been up early in the morning have observed with much interest the beautiful comet which is seen in the East. The comet was discovered on June 30 by Prof. Zacheus Daniels, of Princeton University, and has continued almost steadily to increase in brightness and visibility.

The New York Tribune, in a recent issue, has the following to say about the comet:

"The Daniels comet rises in the east at 3 o'clock in the morning or shortly afterward, and is seen to the best advantage a little before the earliest indications of dawn—say at 4:30. Since it was first discovered it has traveled to the eastward. Several weeks ago it was in the constellation of Taurus. Last week it passed between Procyon (The Little Dog Star) and the brightest stars in Gemini, Castor and Pollux. Just now it is in Cancer, and Sunday, Sept. 1 it was near the brightest star (Alpha) in that constellation. The path it is following would, if extended in immigration, run pretty close to Regulus, in the handle of the sickle-like system of stars in Leo, but Leo does not come above the horizon now until about two hours after the comet.

"The comet now visible in the early morning, though not so brilliant as several observed in modern times, is said to be the most conspicuous object of its class seen in the latitude of this city for a quarter of a century. If comparatively a few persons attempted to rise at an inconvenient hour for the purpose of seeing it, there is certainly enough in the spectacle presented to repay a little effort on the part of those who are up out of bed by business or pleasure until nearly dawn. Indeed, whether the opportunity is improved or not, it deserves to be."

ATHLETICS PROMINENT.

High School Boys Have Started Enthusiastic Campaign.

PROF. EVANS MANAGER.

Will Have Best Team and Best Equipment of Any Season.

Prof. Wm. A. Evans is an enthusiast on the subject of athletics and he lost no time in organizing an athletic association in the Public High School. This department—of it will almost rise to the importance of a department—will be given especial prominence. There is some excellent material in the High school and the boys have already organized for a year of victories.

Tom Smith is President of the Association, James Breathitt, Jr., is manager of the foot-ball team and a good player will be captain. The members of the association have assessed themselves $1.00 each and will also appeal to the business men to raise a fund sufficient to provide handsome uniforms and a thorough athletic equipment.

The team is already practicing and the material at hand will soon be organized by Prof. Evans for the best results.

Several of the star players of last year will be on hand again this year for both foot-ball and basket-ball. Among those who made fine records last year were, Thomas Earle, Charles Meacham, Athol Bartley, James Breathitt and others. Many of the younger boys are being given a course of training and after Prof. Evans finds out the capacity of the players he will organize a team that expects to capture everything contested for. It is already settled that the Vanderbilt Training School at Elkton will be one of the first aggregations to bite the dust.

The Annihilation of Distance

How much nearer to each other the nations of the world are today than they were a few decades ago! When weeks and months were required to get news from across the ocean the old world seemed to be a long way off. Now the whole earth is belted with telegraph and cable lines and yesterday's happenings in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the islands of the sea are read at this morning's breakfast table. Distance is annihilated and the nations are becoming friendly neighbors in consequence. The marvelous change is brought home to the mind most strikingly upon reading a great modern newspaper whose telegraphic news covers the whole world each day—a paper such as The Chicago Record-Herald, which has a veritable army of correspondents in every important city. In addition to its own staff of correspondents The Record-Herald has the benefit of the foreign news service of the New York Herald, famous for its worldwide cable system and for the reliability of its foreign news; also that of the New York World and the New York Journal of Commerce, besides that great co-operative news-gathering organization, the Associated Press.

REVOLUTION.

Modern Circus in Hands of Worthy and Honorable Men.

People Can Go to Show Expecting to See Everything as Advertised.

Within recent years there has been a noticeable revolution in the methods employed in the management of circuses. In former years the promises of a circus man were considered worthless, and the statement of circus advertisements were discredited.

This is changed now. The modern circus is, as a rule, in the hands of worthy and honorable men, they are reliable and agreeable in business relations. The greatest and most satisfactory change is in the line of advertising, the Carl Haggenbeck & Great Wallace Shows Combined are advertised to appear in Hopkinsville, Wednesday Sept. 18.

They advertise that they will present certain new and marvelous acts. They name the performers, picture and describe the acts and people can go to the show expecting to see everything as advertised.

It is not a question of whether or not Haggenbeck & Wallace will show all they advertise, as people have learned that this show is an amusement counter, that the Haggenbeck & Wallace circus invariably exhibits a great deal more than advertised.

The South's Interest In Forest Planting.

A notable awakening of interest in forest planting is becoming evident throughout the Southern States. As farmers learn that the growing of timber crops is practicable, they gradually begin to realize that much land producing poor agricultural crops might better be devoted to trees.

It is well known that tobacco growing and lack of fertilization have exhausted many Southern farms and left them practically worthless for agriculture. The growing of forest trees on these worn out lands will not only bring higher returns than poor farm crops, but will improve the soil and restore it to its former state of fertility.

No detailed investigations of the possibilities of forest planting in this region have yet been made, but it is probable that a study of this field will be begun within a short time by the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. While the forest service is glad to give all the assistance possible to prospective tree planters, recommendations for planting in the South must necessarily be general at present.

All who are interested in tree planting, however, may obtain valuable advice by writing the forestry service for suggestions concerning the choice of species and methods. Applications for advice should contain as much detailed information as possible concerning the character of the soil, drainage, and native species of trees, as well as the purpose for which planting is to be undertaken, whether for the production of fence posts or lumber or the prevention of soil erosion.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Tabernacle Course For the Coming Season.

Most of the Tabernacle course attractions this season will come before the bad weather season and we know our patrons will be glad to hear that most of the dates will fall during the fall and early winter.

The season will open with the Elmer E. Smith Co. Miss Smith, the star of this company of five people, in the greatest reader and child impersonator before the American public. The next number will be Mr. Frederick Warde, the eminent tragedian. The third number will be Schildkret's Hungarian Orchestra, who was with us last season. No. 4 will be Mr. Montaville Flowers, president of the Powers Academy of Speech and Dramatic Art, Cincinnati, O. The next number will be Maro, the prince of magic, with his great saxophone quartette. No. 6 will be the great Portland Newhall Concert Co., male quartette and bell ringers. The next number will be Mrs. Wm. Calvin Chilton, of Oxford, Miss. The eighth number has not yet been selected. We are trying to secure Gov. Folk, of Missouri. Failing in this we will get Geo. R. Weston, R. R. Rogers, or Mr. Vaughan or some other noted lecturer of this magnitude.

The tabernacle is now out of debt, the building is in shape to appear in worn out carpet and the rough platform that it covered will be replaced with a first class stage. The stage lighting will be improved, and if possible suitable dressing rooms will be made, if the funds hold out. These repairs will be made with the profits of last season's course. No expense has been spared in selecting talent for the coming season, and we hope the public will appreciate our efforts in their behalf. The price of season tickets will be the same as heretofore—$2.00 for season tickets for eight (8) attractions, or 25c per attraction. Single tickets will be 50c per attraction, for Warde, Maro, Hungarian Orchestra, and possibly the number yet to be selected. Single tickets will be 75c, general admission, 1.00 reserved seats.

H. L. MCPHERSON, Manager.

Resolutions.

"In the pulseless hush of death, silence seems more expressive, more appropriate than speech," and yet we cannot witness the passing of a friend and associate without mingling with our grief expressed tokens of love and sympathy.

At a meeting of the Hopkinsville bar, held in the office of the clerk of the Christian circuit court, on Aug. 30, 1907, in memory of Harvey W. Breathitt, the following proceedings were had:

Judge Joseph I. Landes was elected chairman and C. R. Clark, Esq., secretary of the meeting.

Upon motion of Judge Joe McCarroll, the chair appointed the undersigned members of the local bar as a committee to draft resolutions, expressing therein the regret and bereavement sustained by the untimely passing away of Harvey W. Breathitt.

Upon motion, C. R. Clark, Esq., was directed to procure a suitable floral design to be placed upon his grave.

Upon motion the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, He, whose ways are past our understanding, has seen fit to call from his earthly labors, Harvey W. Breathitt, our friend, associate and member of the Hopkinsville bar. Be it

Resolved, That we regret his untimely and sudden death. He was kind of heart, attentive in the discharge of duties entrusted to him, and in trying positions courteous and considerate of the welfare of every one. While a retiring disposition and modest in his demeanor, he was firm in his adherence to what he conceived to be right and remarkable in his loyalty to those he loved. He will be missed at the courthouse, where he spent many years of his life, and his departure will be mourned by hundreds who were the recipients of his kindness.

Resolved, That we attend his funeral in a body and that a suitable floral offering be laid upon his grave.

Resolved further, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Christian circuit court and county court, with which he was so long connected, and that a copy be furnished his family by our secretary, and that the local press be requested to publish same.

A Lesson in Dollars.

The young are apt scholars, and quite naturally hang on to every word and note the actions of parents. If they see the elders display a disregard for money, it is almost certain that the young people will grow up with the same spirit.

Teach your children to be economical, the value of money and the wisdom of saving. Open an account in the boy's name and encourage him to make it grow.

A Norway Town Without Taxes.

"The town of Faleide, Norway, imposes no taxes on its lucky inhabitants," says the London (Eng.) Standard. During the last thirty years the authorities at Faleide have sold over $5,000,000 worth of trees; and, by judicious replanting have provided for a similar income every thirty years. In consequence of this source of commercial wealth, there are no taxes in Faleide, and local railways and telephones are free, as well as education and drinks—upon the King's birthday!"
